On to Kirksville is the Osteopathic Slogan for Aug. 3d to 8th to Kirksville!" That is the slogan of every Osteopathic physician in America at this moment. Scarcely ten days will elapse before there will begin a mighty pilgrimage to the Mecca of our science—the men and women of Osteopathy from the North, South, East and West, will pack their grips and start on a joyous going home to hold the mightiest reunion in the history of the profession.

We are going to shake hands once again with Father Andrew—to wear the souvenir fobs that bear his likeness and to join in hymns of gratitude that work, and sing that excellent song of Brother Fagan, "God, Bless His Eighty Years!" We are going to greet Father Andrew and tell him now much we care for him and praise him for the noble work he has done, while he is still alive, knowing that he would rather have our affectionate regards and hearty handshake while he is in the flesh than have us rear a costly monument to him for his great life's work after he has gone to his reward. We will tell him what we think of him here and now.

"We're going to Kirksville!" is the right slogan for us all. Not only graduates of the A. S. O., but graduates of the children and grandchildren schools alike that descended from the parent college—all will go with equal interest and enthusiasm.

Any man or woman who is an osteopath and will not be at the great Kirksville meeting of osteopaths will have failed in his duty if it were at all possible in any way to have gone.

Come if you have to walk, no matter whether you belong to the A. O. A. or not! Come if you have to borrow the money! Come to Kirksville!!

This is a meeting of, by and for the osteopaths—of all our legitimate colleges alike. If you never met "Pappy" before it is all the more reason why you should come now and meet him face to face. If you are one of the old graduates of the A. S. O., enough said—we know you will come without any further persuasion.

This meeting will last from August 3d to August 8th, and there will be a full week of hip-hi-purr-ralling, merrymaking, speechmaking, celebrating, handshaking and love feasting—all that goes with and is included in the gathering of a clan of three thousand loyal osteopaths. Three thousand have been separated from one end of the year (and decade) to the other.

And then there is that big procession. Don't forget it. It is one of the features of the week. Don't forget the "Father" and "Mother" Still around town in a big barouche with a thousand or more lusty osteopaths tugging at the hand strings. Some say this feature is a fake—but wait and see. It will be a sight worth crossing the continent to see and participate in.

So, with our last breath in this issue, let us again shout the refrain:

"On to Kirksville!"

And come if you have to borrow the money! It may be the last time you will ever have on earth to enjoy a love feast with the revered founder of osteopathy and you will starve your own soul of the fellowship it craves if you can come and don't! Come!
Missouri Osteopathic Association Merges Its Meeting With A. O. A.'s.

As announced by different journals, the delegates of the M. O. A. are to join hands with the M. V. O. A. and act as host to the A. O. A. convention. Believing that the large majority of osteopaths would prefer meeting at this time, and not wanting to make two trips this year, it was decided not to hold a regular session this year, but instead have a business session and all enjoy a good time together with the assurance of the best convention next year that the M. O. A. has ever witnessed, with the largest membership and attendance.

The business session will be held probably on Tuesday afternoon of the week of the convention, and every member of the M. O. A. is urged to be present and have an active part in the work of the state. There are something like 250 D. O.'s in the state, and only about 100 in the association. What's the matter with the other 150? It is high time that every osteopath who believes in progress and has the interest of their own welfare, as well as that of the profession, at heart will get in line. There is plenty of work for the association, which means work for each individual physician and surgeon.

We should strive hard to raise our standard in every respect, and it is up to each individual man or woman to do his or her part.

The following committees have been appointed to be active this summer and during the convention:

To act as a reception committee during the A. O. A. convention, the following have been appointed and are expected to be in Kirksville by August 2nd.

Chairman—St. Joseph
William E. Englehart, D. O., St. Louis, Mo.
Minnie Potter, D. O., Memphis, Mo.

The following have been appointed to assist in the decorations of Kirksville:

Minnie Potter, D. O., Memphis, Mo.
Franklin Fiske, A. B., D. O., Kirksville, Mo.
Charley Still, D. O., Kirksville, Mo.

Pap's Portrait to be Unveiled at Kirksville.

The portrait of our beloved founder, which will be unveiled at the time of the big meeting with proper ceremonies, is finished and is said to be one of the most striking likenesses ever seen of any one. The artist, Mr. George Burroughs Torrey of New York, did his work in the month of June and has made a triumph of his work. He captured the Old Doctor just right and a strong bond of fraternity developed between the artist and his model while the work was in progress. This enabled the Old Doctor to be as natural as he ever was, and those who have been privileged to view the picture say it is as natural as life.

Now, you want to come to Kirksville to see this picture, and we want you to think in ad-

While myself and wife were away from home somebody mailed to both of us a watch fob. Do not know who was it was yourself. However, I am going to you the whole story about it. I must credit yourself with the work on the fob is a great likeness of Father. Every time I look at it I always put me into close touch with my dear old self.

I understand Chicago is going to come down to the convention with an army strong. This certainly sounds good to me. So I am writing this to you for the information that we are going to have a big crowd here.

Sincerely yours,

FRATERLY YOURS,

HARRY M. STILL.

My dear Dr. Bunting:

We received our brooches several days ago, and I have worn mine many days since. I like it very much, even better than the fob, as I very seldom wear a watch. Ma wishes me to thank you for the same. I shall be here to thank you for the beautiful brooch, I am.

BLANCHE LAUGHLIN.

I am proud of my Legion of Honor fob. Not being up in the newspaper business, I cannot understand the importance of an osteopathic souvenir brooch and watch fob. In fact, why not wear the thing like everybody else? THE OSTEOPATHIC PHYSICIAN

Osteopaths Endorse
The Sheldon Spinal Appliance

Doctors of Osteopathy, being among the leaders in modern thought along the lines of healing, are naturally enthusiastic in their endorsement of the Sheldon Spinal Appliance. Osteopaths know the spine and spinal cord oftentimes are the real cause of many nervous diseases especially common among women and children. In the treatment of all diseases due to intervertebral nerve pressure, as well as the more serious spinal troubles, no other appliance or form of apparatus can be so effective as our No. 1 Sheldon Appliance.

It weighs only a few ounces; is as easy to take off and put on as a coat; is removable at any time for purposes of cleanliness, examination or treatment; is as firm as steel where it should be firm and as flexible as whalebone where it should be flexible; is made only to order, from measurements taken by the attending doctor; adapts itself to every movement of the body and never chafes or irritates; and is easily adjusted from day to day as the patient improves.

The Osteopath can find no other aid equal to the Sheldon Appliance in his treatment of spinal trouble.

Let us send you our descriptive literature and tell you what other associations are saying about the Sheldon Appliance. If you have had experience in your work and plan of co-operation will interest you.

An Osteopathic Book Appears on Mind-Cure.

Dr. E. J. Bartholomew, of Chicago, Does a Notable Service for the Profession.

No better prophecy for the future of the science of osteopathy can be made than to draw aside the curtain of privacy from the work of scores and hundreds of our conscientious practitioners, each busily engaged in his own pet field of work and doing a more or less noteworthy job toward the advancement of the osteopathic science.

The profession is constantly treated to a surprise or revelation by the works of its doctors, and heralded by the osteopathic publications for some line of individual work that he is pursuing.

One of our doctors who has not been much in the public eye, but who has pursued a line of medical thinking and practical work which entitles him to the consideration of the profession is Dr. E. J. Bartholomew of Chicago. This practitioner, in his own quiet way, has been specializing in the study of the mind in the causation and cure of disease.

His work is rather unique in that he is viewing the problem wholly from the osteopathic standpoint. There is that about his opinions and his application of osteopathic mental and physical therapeutics which deserves attention, and he never fails to interest an osteopath who may be fortunate enough to share a heart-to-heart talk with him on the subject which lies so close to his heart.

Dr. Bartholomew has just written a book on this subject and we have had the satisfaction of reading the first edition of his printers. It is called "Man, Woman—Know Thyself." It will be off the press in two or three weeks and he is now booking advanced orders for it. This book will contain 225 pages, 89 original illustrations and will sell for $2.15, postpaid.

Those D. O.'s who want a good book, produced by an osteopath on the subject of mental diagnosis and treatment—and what live osteopath doesn't?—should hasten to send in orders to Dr. Bartholomew and have the satisfaction of helping him judge how the first edition to order of his printers. It's worth many times the price. Send for it.

Unlike any of the medical writers on this subject, Dr. Bartholomew talks as an osteopath and begins with the known and verifiable facts of the nervous system. He stands on the platform that all mentality has its correlation with the nervous system. He always deals with the mind as a factor by itself and apart from the body. Dr. Bartholomew handles his subject on the hypothesis that the nervous system is the seat of mind and through its disturbances it influences mind just as surely as it reacts upon the nervous system.

There is charming simplicity about Dr. Bartholomew's treatise throughout and it is written so clearly in the main that even a patient will understand it, yet that does not sacrifice any of its value for the osteopathic doctor, and I am sure that the practical views contained in this book, together with the need of controlling the thoughts of patients will prove quite new to a great many of our doctors.

So important do I believe this subject to be that I have this month written a brochure on it which I am offering the profession as the August number of Osteopathic Health, entitled "The Mind in Osteopathic Therapeutics." I am indebted to Dr. Bartholomew for inspiration and a considerable part of the contents covered in this article, and, indeed, writing this brochure—which has been an intention of mine for many months—was brought to a fixed purpose by reviewing his new book in manuscript form the past month.

I am sure that those who have already thought deeply on the subject will welcome a piece of field literature bearing on this subject, and those who take it to their hearts will see in it the substance of the August issue of "O. H." which promptly buy Dr. Bartholomew's new book and those who see this book first will naturally turn to us to get an acceptable piece of field literature which covers this subject in a way that will do their patients the most good and that is the issue of Osteopathic Health. We give the table of contents here to show the scope of this book and there follows a reprint of one chapter to show the author's way of handling his subject:

The Osteopathic Physician

The Motor Nervous System (Inverted).

[Copyright, 1907. By Dr. E. J. Bartholomew.]

The accompanying picture represents the motor nervous system and what it supplies. The motor nervous system supplies the voluntary muscles or muscles of motion, that is, those under the control of the will or mind, such as are found in the hands, arms, limbs and feet. The nervous system consists of the nerve cells, the nerve fibres, and the spinal cord. From this cord issue the forty-one pairs of principal nerves in turn the infinite number of nerves of the body, variously estimated at from ten to twenty millions. Man is a veritable bundle of "live wires," and the nervous system could be likened to a pipe system. The nervous system supplies the lights which convey the electricity to the lights, represented by the ends of the fingers, toes, etc., in fact all parts of the body may be lights for our purpose, since all parts are supplied with nerves and nerve force.

There are two ways of disabling this plant, either locally or generally, that is, one light or all can be dimmed or extinguished. One by pressing on the wire leading to that light. Pressure upon the wire "a" will extinguish the wire to which it leads. A pressure upon "b" will have a similar effect; or a pressure upon "c" will cause a flickering of the light "d" which is supplied by that wire. The flickering of the light "d" is an effect—the cause must be found and removed before the effect; so the electrician follows the course of the wire back from the disabled or extinguished light and locates the cause at "c"—the pressure upon the wire or a grounded circuit. When the impediment in the wire at "c" is removed and its conductivity restored, the light "d" will burn brightly as before. All this follows the principle, thereby the effect, the cause being a pressure upon the wire between the source of supply (the dynamo) and the parts supplied (the lights).

All lights may be dimmed or put out by handling the dynamo. Under favorable conditions 100 per cent of electricity is generated in the dynamo, but there may be an imperfect engineer in the basement, incapable of advancing the operation of the dynamo; as a result, only 50 per cent of the wires which convey the electricity to the lights, represented by the ends of the fingers, toes, etc., in fact all parts of the body may be lights for our purpose, since all parts are supplied with nerves and nerve force.

Still Time to Arrange For Dr. Smith's Lecture

There is still time to get a few dates arranged for my lecture on osteopathy this summer if you hurry. I trust you have read some of the endorsements of the osteopaths in the various places I have visited. These without exception express their unqualified approval of the entertainment and educational value of this lecture. They say it is proving a power for the good of osteopathy in these places. It will help your field likewise. Let me hear from you. Address me at Kirksville and mail will be forwarded enroute.

The American Osteopathic College of Optics

Authorised and Incorporated

Osteopaths can increase their practices very materially by learning one of the most profitable branches of the profession.

Optics, as a specialty for the Osteopathic Physician, can not be surpassed.

The new and simplified method of refraction is taught which enables the student to become proficient much sooner than by the old methods.

A corps of able instructors give their personal attention to the instruction of the students.

The complete course may be taken by correspondence.

The degree, "Doctor of Optics" (Op. D.), is conferred upon those who complete the course.

Address all communications to the Secretary American Osteopathic College of Optics, Ellsworth, Kansas.
necesary electricity or energy is generated. The cause is not found to be a defect in the plant, but in the incompetency of the engineer. Supplant him by one who is competent, the dynamic will then generate a sufficient supply for the lights and their normal condition will be restored. A pressure upon the elbow nerve (C7) which was a direct handicap to the source of supply (the water mains) may be removed, while a pressure upon the radial nerve (C6) will not.

As the electric lighting plant may be disabled in two ways, locally and generally, so the man electric lighting plant (man) may be diseased or affected in two ways—locally or generally—that is, mechanically or mentally.

Man is diseased locally or mechanically by pressing upon his elbow nerve (C7), or a diseased condition in the muscles and tissues which supply the current, thus shutting off the electric current to the body; or generally (all the lights are extinguished) by handling the fingers. (As the electric lighting plant is disabled generally (all the lights are extinguished) by handling the fingers, so is the human electric lighting plant (man), diseased generally by handling the human dynamo (the brain) by absorbing thought, the patient must conquer it; but co-operation is necessary.)

Under the heading of "abnormal thought." Abnormal thought affects the brain as a leakage from a tank in maintaining health. The physician should point out to the patient the great percentage of adults, of America in particular, who allow themselves to be photographed by abnormal thought. This same illustration may represent the human dwelling which has but one tenant (the mind or soul). There are two groups of servants in this human dwelling; the brain being the head-quarter, and subservient to the mind, while the heart, lungs, stomach, intestines, kidneys, spleen, etc., are the under servants and dependent upon the head servant (the brain) for direction. One of the under servants can be deprived of the power to responses or stimulus, the whole effect of pressure or impediment to the nerve through which it is conducted is directly felt by the under servants. Should the head servant or brain become disabled by excess or from any other cause, a demoralization of the whole system will result. Lack of government, confusion, disorder, and neglect would follow. But death would render the dwelling unfit for habitation by the master. The same diagram would then vacate and seek another shelter.

Louisiana is the Latest Osteopathic State.

LOUSIANA osteopaths have won an out and out victory by defeating the medical men of the State, by means of an independent osteopathic law which was duly signed by Governor Blanchard and has become a law. All that was left then was the point out the new osteopathic board when Louisiana will take her proud stand among osteopathic states.

The whole story is very interestingly told by Secretary Hewes in this good letter of July 13th to The Osteopathic Physician.

Enclosed you will find editorials and other data concerning our fight for recognition in this State. Also a complete list of the various associations and individually to which we contributed, and also the reports of those who so kindly assisted us—our most hearty thanks to all such associations.

Following is a brief outline of our struggle in this State. On February 1, 1896, the following resolution was adopted by the House of Representatives of the Louisiana Legislature:

"Be it resolved, that Mr. Derouen be called as a witness to the order of the House of Representatives."

On February 5th, Dr. C. M. McGovern called a meeting of the Osteopaths of the State and urged upon us the necessity of passing a law which would help strengthen the medical profession. After which we had heard from various sources, that the M. D.'s were going to make an effort to defeat us. At this meeting we elected officers, appointed a Louisiana Osteopathic Committee, and one of the most successful parts of the struggles which we afterwards won out so successfully. When the Legislature convened we made a careful study of the various members, and finally unanimously decided and wisely chose the Hon. F. C. Claiborne to introduce our bill. He agreed and the bill was introduced, and referred to the Board Committee on Health, and Quarantine, composed mostly of M. D.'s who were opposed to it and had the power of vetoing it. We made a strong fight for three weeks in the House, and finally had to yield to the wishes of our opponents, a medical man, who were opposed to it and postponed the measure to the next session.

While the Osteopathic bill came up for final passage in the house, it was fought bitterly by Dr. Derouen, who claimed that it was "lowering the standard of medicine" which we physicians have made our business. A facts that any one who wishes to practice medicine in this State must pass a rigid examination and get his certificate before entering upon practice." Little did he dream, poor chap, that we were in full possession of facts regarding him! We had heard and had the proof that he had failed in his examination before the State Medical Board and that he did not then have a certificate to practice but was simply given a temporary permit to practice until October, when he could go before the examining committee and try the examinations! Our committee arose and took the floor in our behalf. We proved to the world, not only that this man was worthy of this office, but that he was a man of the people, a medical man, and could understand his reasons for so doing unless he had done it for the money. We proved to the world that we had enough to either kill or make the bill good.

EDITORIAL

"How to the line, let ehies fall where they will"

We will thank our friends, one and all, who see interesting clippings in newspapers and magazines relating to matters of osteopathic interest, to send the same to us, with or without comment.

The editor of The O. P. has had up the Correspondence School abuse in Chicago with the local post office authorities, but has as yet found nothing that would be sufficient to suppress this nuisance. Anybody else who is better informed will be heard with interest.

The osteopathic bill passed the Louisiana Senate unanimously July 24. This is the kind of an osteopathic victory that is worth something and it shows what a dozen lone osteopaths can do against fifteen hundred M. D.'s when they get thoroughly organized. Victories like this make the osteopaths of outside states who contributed to a fight like this feel good that they had a hand in the skirmish.

DIPHTHERIA NEXT MONTH.

Next issue we will print a good thoughtful article on "Diphtheria" by Dr. E. E. Tucker, of Jersey City, N. J., as a chapter in his excellent serial, "Anatomical and Physiological Pictures of Disease." If osteopaths who contribute to a fight like this feel good that they are doing something, how much more so will osteopaths who do not bother to write to their senators and congressmen feel that they are doing something.

CAPITULATE TO LOS ANGELES!

The Los Angeles osteopaths have gone out to get the 1906 meeting of the American Osteopathic Association next summer. They have gotten the civic bodies of the city to co-operate with them in the effort. Well, fellows, we might as well give up. There is no use of trying to go against the tide of time or do the impossible. If the Los Angeles people decide they want our convention next year, they are going to get it: so we might as well accept the situation gracefully and go in line with the Los Angeles idea.

OSTEOPATH DEPRECIATES HIMSELF.

We regret to see in the Hastings Daily Republican of July 18th the following notice: "Osteopathy--Dr. Jones; Both phones; Office treatments $1.00 and up." Dr. George Jones is making a mistake to offer his professional services at such a wage. It depreciates his value by the price he puts upon himself and he should not expect that the public will give him any higher valuation than he asks for himself. It is wrong as a business proposition for any member of the osteopathic profession to ask one dollar a treatment because the experience of thousands of osteopaths has demonstrated that no man can do that which his patients justice at that price and not go broke vitally and financially, and in the second place it is quite unprofes­sional and unscientific for a doctor to ask any price for his treatments in the newspapers no matter what his charges are. We hope he is wise enough to avoid this mistake and to stop it and to formulate his announcement.

DON'T BE BOYCOTTED AS TO OFFICES.

Last issue we told of C. F. Latrophe at Seattle, Wash., suing the agents of the building he occupies for heavy damages because of discrimination. Our Gamma friends write us of an office: The newspaper clipping from which we got the item referred to this man as an osteopath. We have had two statements sent us, one by an osteopath in the region and the other by one of the building agents. However, this case is a peg on which the osteopaths may hang a moral, and that is when cases of osteopaths are discriminated against by the landlords at the insistence of bigoted M. D.'s—which is true as regards several sever­al buildings within half a mile of this editorial office—there is one sure remedy and that is to go into court and seek damages. The laws of the land are usually very em­phatic boycotting and illegal combinations and conspiracies in the restraint of trade, and it will be worth money to any osteopaths to get a clear-cut case of this sort and have the evidence to back it up in a court of record.

ALL PRAISE DR. WM. SMITH'S LECTURE.

From all points where Dr. William Smith has delivered his lecture on osteopathy I have heard that his work is giving the utmost satis­faction both to the osteopaths and to the public. Our Gamma friends write us of a very enthusiastic response from Denver, Colorado Springs, Trinidad, Pueblo, Leadville and Montrose. At every one of these places Dr. Smith emphasized the fact that he was not fighting the medical men, but was educating the people as to modern methods of treating disease. He should be asked next year in that state, and the pro­fession wishes the people to know what oste­opathy is so that they may influence their legislators to give us justice. The Denver association seems quite in favor of having Dr. Smith visit eight or ten other points during the Christmas vacation with a view to fur­ther education, the towns on the list being Greeley, Fort Collins, Boulder, Cripple Creek, Grand Junction, Durango and Ouray. As a result of his two trips and eighteen talks in the state, there is no doubt that it would give a tremendous boost to the legislative fight in that state. We have received letters of commendation and praise and only lack of space prevent us from printing the whole of them.

Any osteopaths who want to boost osteopathy in their locality cannot do better than to have Dr. Smith come and deliver his lecture.

WANT TO BUY AN AUTO?

Here is a bargain to buy an auto. It is a fine four cylinder with a rear seat body, rear entrance: 16-horsepower, with top and lights; 1893 model; original cost, $8, 900 at a good condition. Can now be inspected at 6106 La Salle street. The top is new, cost $10; tires good, were refinished last fall, and is newly painted. This machine is a bargain at $400 cash. The owner is a responsible Chicago business man who is selling because he has five or six other machines.

The osteopath is known to be the publisher of The Osteopathic Physician. The case will bear investigation.

How to Use the Chest Compress in Pneumonia.

By Dr. C. W. Young, of St. Paul, Minn.

TO BEGIN with, it is hoped that nothing so common as pneumonia will be con­strued by any one as in any way detracting from the merits of osteopathic adjustment. The writer regards the manipulative procedures the more valu­able and important, but experience has con­vinced him that water used in addition to manipulation will make the patient more com­fortable and recovery more certain.

Baruch says, "In my own observation the chest compress has proved the most useful procedure in pneumonia." He claims that the compress tends to simulate nerve centers, prevent heart failure, reduce tempera­ture and eliminate toxins. All healing that can be done through manipulation the patient must come through the reaction of the body to force, and hence all force should be applied in preference to the reactive power of each patient. This requires clinical experi­ence in the use of every force employed.

A cold water compress is more or less forceful according to the temperature of the water, the size and thickness of the flannel and the linen, the extent to which the water is wrung out of the linen, the length of time the compress is applied to, and the fre­quency of renewal. A patient reacts more or less readily according to his merit, will, power, or the weather, temperature, position and vitality. If the patient has feeble reactive powers, he should have hot water bags at his feet and be snugly covered with ample bed cloth­ing.

The chest compress in pneumonia should make the patient feel that he is applying the expectation and reduce the temperature. If it results in chill after the first moment of application, if it irritates or ex­hausts the patient, it should be discontinued.

The writer on his first visit in a case of pneumonia, after giving the manipulative treatment, took out a compressing garter for a small flannel blanket and a large bath towel.
wring out of cold water and vinegar, half and half. The vinegar must be pure cider or wine vinegar. Acetic acid will not do. The cold water is all right, as it comes from the man-made flour and sugar, and twice, so as to make four thicknesses, and is placed on the bed at the side of the patient. This will keep the feet warm, and so that at least four inches of flannel extend beyond the towel on each side.

The first thing is the trick. The compress is drawn under him, so that the upper part of the back, beginning a few inches below the neck, is covered on the compress. The ends of the towel are quickly drawn over the chest so as to extend over the back. The hands and the feet are then tucked under the towels. The compress are then drawn over the towel and fastened snugly with safety pins. The nurse is instructed to let the latter be done for half an hour at least, and longer up to an hour, if the compress does not become disagreeable to the patient.

In cases some the nurse is instructed to renew with fresh blanket and towel.

When the patient has strong fever, we allow the compress to be renewed at any time, if the nurse feels that it is not bound snugly so as to shut out the air. Never envelop the flannel with water. A nurse who felt not gentle and sensible, she can be taught the principles of the compress, and the extent of its treatment, and left to her discretion. Where she does not possess these qualities, the doctor must keep up specific instructions.

It is true that specially prepared linen and flannel cut so as to admit the arms at the axilla, and the use of the blanket insures ample quantity of flannel, and the use of the compress insures the availability of fresh material after each application. The application can be used as indicated every day, until the crisis or drop of fever.

Louisiana is the Latest Osteopathic State.

Local men had offered and put in its place an amendment which simply gave us exemption from their bill. You will note that the Osteopaths did not make a single concession and on the contrary the medical men were compelled to make any number of changes and concessions to the ten Osteopath State Board. They are a loss of fighters. Hon. F. C. Claiborne.

The governor has signed the Osteopathic bill, but as yet has not appointed a board. It seemed to be the object of the medical profession to have our amendment simply quoted off from their bill. You will note that the Osteopaths did not make a single concession and on the contrary the medical men were compelled to make any number of changes and concessions to the ten Osteopath State Board. They are a loss of fighters. Hon. F. C. Claiborne.

Good Clinics at Kirkville.

Dr. George Still, chairman of the organizing committee for the big Kirkville meeting, August 3rd to 5th, as chairmen of the committee arranges this matter. He is going to give in the future. Their representation is very small, to make any number of changes and concessions to the ten Osteopath State Board. They are a loss of fighters. Hon. F. C. Claiborne.

Osteopaths Hear Call of the Wild.

Dr. George Still is busy catching fish at Camp Osteopathy at his ranch and home. He is offering to make us or rather give us the right to practice medicine, but decided in favor of examining our men in the future. Their representation is very small, to make any number of changes and concessions to the ten Osteopath State Board. They are a loss of fighters. Hon. F. C. Claiborne.

The Bi. Louis Republic celebrated its Centennial Anniversary July 12th with a Write-up on all of this. The St. Louis Republic was in the hospital with life of that city. Among the things of interest in this issue were Dr. C. E. Lauglin and Jean Lynch arriving a little after the game. They as their usual practice have given the Osteopaths of this State a closed corporation and we would have had a large debate monopoly on the Osteopathic practice of the State. The Osteopaths of this State a closed corporation and we would have had a large debate monopoly on the Osteopathic practice of the State. But we did not use that many words for the matter. Then they tried to pull us off by threatening to bring two hundred medical men against our bill and if it cost them $10,000 they would kill it. This also was the idea of the medical men. They only after they were compelled to yield to the medical men, they were forced to get their own bill through.

The St. Louis Republic referred to Dr. N. H. Bolles as a member in the state of New York. The St. Louis Republic refers to Dr. C. L. Fagan's excellent tribute to Dr. A. T. Still published this.

Dr. J. H. Sullivan in the Woods.

Dr. Joseph H. Sullivan made a fine trip up the Lahe in June with his eldest son Raymond Sullivan, who is a third year man at the University in Michigan in the department of civil engineering, who is in camp during the summer to work in the rough. Dr. Sullivan and accompanied him by boat and stage route up to a point near Buffalo where about eight miles below his class had a camp. Dr. Sullivan had a fine outing in all. Mainly in the shape of the Kirkville meeting where he hopes to meet his old friends.

Dr. N. H. Bolles is A. M. Now.

Dr. Nettle H. Bolles, who has been promnent among the Osteopaths of the State, has been osteopathic and general, received the degree of Doctor of Medicine this month, after the recent commencement, June 17th. Dr. Bolles is nothing if not student. Subscribed B. S. and B. R. degrees from the University of Kansas year before entering osteopathy.

Dr. Ralph W. Williams Reappointed.

At the annual meeting of the New York Board of Regents, held June 23rd, Dr. Ralph W. Williams, of Rochester, N. Y., member of the Board, was reappointed for a period of three years as a member of the Examining Board. This shows that Dr. Williams has made good in his official capacity and was the cause for much gratification to every member in the state of New York. A Western Sanitarium.

The Washington Institute of Osteopathy, of Seattle, has decided on a site on Port Orchard bay across the bay from Bremerton, as a location for a sanitarium and health resort. The site contains 25 acres of shore land which was purchased for $500 an acre by the proprietors of the Phoenix Insurance Company of Port Orchard—Seattle, Wash., Post-Intelligencer.

Souvenirs to Louisiana Heroes.

Out of appreciative regard for the splendid services rendered our valiant band of Louisiana osteopaths in their recent fight to secure an independent osteopathic board, the Osteopathic Publishing Company presented one of its souvenir gold coins to Representative Fred Claybourne, of Baton Rouge, the able champion who piloted our bill to victory, and to Major W. I. Strong, editor of the Winfield, La., Sentinel, who testified before the committees and did excellent work in our behalf.

God Bless His Eighty Years.

"God Bless His Eighty Years"—no osteopath in the state has not a story of Dr. A. T. Stil l. This is a very fitting tribute to Dr. A. T. Still ever published. This refers to Dr. C. L. Fagan's excellent tribute to Dr. A. T. Still published this.

Dine's At Denver.

At the meeting of the Denver Osteopathic Association held at the Brown Palace Hotel, Saturday evening, June 6th, after dinner, a number of Curvatures was presented by Dr. R. B. Powell, discussion was carried on by Dr. Walter W. Van Wenden, d.-o. Legislative matters were freely discussed later in the meeting. Saturday evening, June 13th, a banquet was given at the Brown Palace Hotel, in honor of Dr. H. T. Lee, of Kirkville, Mo. Thirty-three osteopaths and friends were present. The event was a most favorable evening. Dr. Smith gave a talk which was much appreciated by all present.—Fannie Laybour, D. 0. Seegmiller.

From An Old Contractor.

You urge me to use "O. H." My Dear Doctor, do you mean O. H. Water? I have not used any literature for more than two years, yet I practice as heavily as any one man should attend to. Yesterday I treated thirty-eight patients, and quite frequently the number totals over forty. I find that my best advertising mediums are my patients. I am sure "O. H." is a mighty helpful agency for those that can benefit from an educational campaign per literature. I know of none better than "O. H. Water."—Dr. O. J. Snyder, Philadelphia, Pa.

Another Fight for Penny.

The Eightieth Annual Convention of the Pennsylvania Osteopathic Association was held June 27th at Harrisburg. The attendance was splendid, the newspapers reporting about 2100 physicians present. It was decided to again push the osteopathic fight for the passage of an Osteopathic Examining Board at the next legislature. These were elected: President, E. O. Snyder, Philadelphia; vice president, Frank R. Broadwell, Harrisburg; secretary, J. W. Kirkpatrick, Scranton; treasurer, Net B. Irwin, York; C. W. Wilkerson, York; W. E. Wolfrom, Philadelphia; J. W. Smith, Pittsburgh, and E. R. Cobb, Harrisburg.

Illinois Warriors Met in Chicago.

June 25th a representative body of osteopaths met at the way in Superintendent, C. T. W. Livingston street, Chicago, to discuss the situation in Illinois. There were present, Dr. Joseph H. Sullivan, H. H. Fryette, J. Martin Littlejohn, E. R. Proctor, Fred W. Gage, and John D. Cunningham of Bloomington and President E. M. Browne of Dixon, the utmost harmony prevailed and there is no question but that the osteopaths of Illinois are now in absolute unity as regards all questions of policy relating to the professional welfare in this state. This is surely good news and worth recording.

Drs. Dobson to Private Practice.

Drs. W. D. Dobson and Walter N. Dobson, physicians in charge of the A. T. Still Osteopathic Sanitarium at St. Louis, resigned their connection with that institution July 15th and located for the conduct of private practice in the Century Bldg., Suite 45th and 45c. It is said that the A. S. O. will abandon the sanitarium entirely; these doctors will demonstrate a splendid success of their work and while re-gratulating to their patients, will be willing that their best interests lie in engaging in practice on a personal basis.

D. O. Says Antitoxine is N. G.

Dr. W. R. Corbin, president of the Oklahoma State Osteopathic Association, made an address at Chickasha recently on the subject of Antitoxine. Antitoxine is Indicated in The Treatment of Diptheria. He said the Pleasure. The opinion, never warrants the use of this alleged remedy. "I have followed the disease for the past ten years," he is reported as saying by the newspapers. "And have knowledge that there have been more deaths from the use of anti­ toxine than result where it is not used." This is a startlingly bold statement, Doctor, and you should be prepared to back up such a claim if you make it.

Memorial Services for Dr. H. T. Lee.

The Kentucky Osteopathic Association held its quarterly meeting in Louisville, July 11th. Mr. and Mrs. Z. W. Lee of Cynthiana, were present, their son, the late H. T. Lee, of this city, having been the organizer of the association. Dr. Buckmaster, first president, of Cynthiana; O. C. Robertson, of Cynthiana; Dr. Bell, of Cynthiana; Dr. Virgil E. Littlejohn, of Danville; Dr. S. W. Logan, of Paris, and Dr. Martha Peckard, of Paris, were among the large number of former members present. During the afternoon the association held a memorial service at 2 o'clock, of Dr. H. T. Lee, first president of the association.—Lexington (Ky.) Herald.

Illinois Meeting En Route to Kirkville.

The Ninth Annual Convention of the Illinois Osteopathic Association will be held in the Cham­ ber of Commerce Building at Quincy August 15th and 16th. Dr. Argyle is chairman of the program. The meeting will be held in the office of Dr. E. H. Riddle. The officers were elected: President, Dr. H. T. Lee, of Kirkville; vice president, Dr. O. J. Snyder, of Philadelphia; secretary, Dr. Fred W. Gage, of St. Louis; treasurer, Dr. O. C. Robertson, of Cynthiana; and members at large, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Browne, of Dixon, Ill.; Mrs. Z. W. Lee, of Cynthiana; and Dr. O. C. Robertson, of Cynthiana. The reports that we printed in the recent issue of The O. P. might indicate that the osteopathic fight for the passage of an Osteopathic Examining Board at the next legislature is one of the most active workers in the Osteopathic movement, was a one-hand affair, as much as no mention was made of the origin of this suit and the professional organization being back of it. As matter of fact, the New York Osteopathic Society originated the suit and Dr. Bandel's case was picked as a test issue. of The O. P. might indicate that the B. F. Young of Des Moines will read a paper in the afternoon on The Anatomical and Physiological Study of the Spine. Dr. A. G. Hildreth of St. Louis, and Dr. C. L. Bailey, of Oregon, will conduct clinics. Dr. J. Martin Littlejohn will discuss osteopathic legislation. There will be an automobile ride at 5 P.M. Every loyal osteopath of Illinois should be there and then accompany the crowd as a body in their journey to Kirksville.

Denver Delighted With William.
Last Monday evening, June 16th, Dr. Wm. Smith gave his lecture on "Osteopathy" before a Denver audience at the Woman's Club. Although the night was cloudy and threatening we had a large audience present. Dr. Smith lectured for two hours and a half. He gave a fine explanation of osteopathy and showed many pictures illustrating the origin and growth to the present time. Dr. Smith holds his audience well and is a pleasing speaker. He made his first appearance on the stage and never gets rattled. He answered many questions from the audience and every one was pleased with his lecture. His lecture is helpful to our communities and it would be good if the states securing legislation would have Dr. Smith tour their state lecturing in all of the important towns in the state. It would work public sentiment and educate the people so that osteopaths would have a much better chance to obtain equal rights before the law as they deserve. We commend Dr. Smith's lecture.
—Yours fracturally, Dr. Chas. C. Reid, Denver.

Senator Money Boosts Osteopathy.
In the August issue of Osteopathic Health the experience of Senator H. D. Money of Mississippi, who had carried a partial dislocation of a neck vertebra since the civil war without knowing it until an osteopath made the discovery. On May 7th Senator Money wrote to Dr. C. G. Hewes, who wanted to quote the case to help the Louisian osteopaths in their fight.

New Orleans, La.

My Dear Doctor:
Senator Money, on the 4th inst. enclosing newspaper clipping received. The newspaper account of the case is not substantially correct. I was not aware of anything having taken place until May 31, 1888, when I saw the subject with the neck in dislocation. On January 20, 1898, at the suggestion of my friend, Senator Foraker, I visited Dr. Helme, an osteopath in New York City, for relief. He discovered not that my neck was broken but there was a slight dislocation in one of the cervical vertebrae. He set the neck properly and it has been all right since, as far as I know.

I have been treated repeatedly by osteopaths for serious ailments with great benefit, and my experience convinces me that it is a good specialty.

beneficial, rational, harmless treatment. I have suffered so much physical pain as any man who has not been bedridden, and I have tried every treatment that held out any hope of relief. I cannot see why the practice of osteopathy should be excluded.

Presented Dr. Geo. Still With Money.

Dr. George Still's continued race for popularity with the A. O. students runs ahead of his own ticket. While Dr. George was leaving Sherbrooke for his preserve, game preserves, the graduating class came to the depot in a bunch and gave George a personal send-off and presented him with a $50 check to do with as they pleased. All of us to the words of the class spokesman, Doctor George was not long on deciding what to do with it. As soon as he reached Crow Wing County he bought 640 acres of additional forest land lying on the lake shore next to the two other counties of wild land that he already owns and he has his dignity ever beehes his spot. "The Fox Ranch." It is said that Doctor George will surround this with a barbed wire fence and use this preserve to stock with cinnamon bears so that the 1988 class at its reunions can come up collectively and go hunting real sport.

Doctor George expects to have the class to have its annual reunions on this patch of ground for ninety-nine years to come. The class are instructed to "Buy a ticket to Piquot and drive in."

Mistake in Promotion—Too Bad!

Dr. W. W. Micks of Middletown, N. Y., sends the following to the attending physician to your attention to the notice inscribed in the papers here for some months. And fourth osteopathic which seems all the more ridiculous since osteopathy has been known here for the past eight years. Dr. C. C. Teall and myself have protested and ordered to lend the young men money in vain. We believe the matter should be thoroughly aired in all osteopathic publications." Dr. Dillabaugh's ad reads: "In order to demonstrate the efficiency of osteopathy in chronic cases, Dr. Dillabaugh, the Rublev is largely catch more a little seed and give treatments for $1.00 each," etc. This is much better than the foolish and unfortunate Dr. Dillabaugh would do well to heed the advice of his seniors in that field. All of us have osteopathy with a man who is down financially and feel it to see him do something unusual to get on his feet. But there is a right and wrong way to do it. the wrong way never brings the success that is desired. It can be set down in advance that no osteopath who loses his dignity ever helps his patients, but such short cuts always give a black eye.

A Good Location Open in Canada.

I am here at Sherbrooke, Quebec, for a class of students in osteopathy. I have been here a few weeks and may remain the summer. I have been here as a matter of fact, I wish to feel it to find a fine place for an osteopath. It is a town of 18,000 population in summer time. On account of the fine water power furnished by the Magog river it has many factories, should say the place will double in population in a few years. There are several large schools and colleges here. Lennoxville, a college town, is just three miles from here. North Hatley, a very fashionable summer place, is just a half hour by train. I really feel that the right person could work up a fine practice, both winter and summer. I know of one patient they have to begin on. I also mean to work up osteopathy all I can while here. The people really seem to want an osteopath. Living is less expensive than in the States. The law does not bother us and there is a homeopath who will be friendly if met half way. In fact, I'm going to see some cases with him to-morrow. Trusting that through your paper you may find some good person to locate here. I will be glad to give any one information regarding the location. Address 510 2d avenue, Albany, New York. I am, very truly yours,

Our Pioneer Gallery

Dr. R. H. Williams is a Pioneer "All Antiseptic."

WHEN you mention the name of any professional osteopathic physician, it will be natural to add the remark that he has been in the work long enough to be counted a pioneer, instantly some main, outstanding symptom of the man or woman arises to give him one rating or another in the catalogue of professional opinion. Either he is a strong lesionist, or a great reformer, or a gentle, but a wide assortment of skin troubles. He has issued from time to time plenty of pamphlets and circulars, as well as for all general antiseptic purposes. The kind of muscle and energy that Dr. Williams has used in this way, and the provision that his antiseptic is the best thing available for their purposes has been phenomenal. Who has not read his booklets and testimonials and circulars galore.

I believe now that Dr. Williams has retired from practice altogether in order to devote himself to the business of making his several antiseptic articles and spreading the knowledge of their value and increasing their usage among osteopaths. Dr. E. J. Kampf has recently been taken into partnership by Dr. Williams as an equal partner in practice and now looks after Dr. Williams' patients, the latter, however, retaining a constant advisory interest in the office work.

Dr. Williams came from a family who had been troubled a good deal with eczema. His father and his grandfather had been victims of this malady. He noticed symptoms of the trouble developing on his own body early in 1900, and kept trying constantly by one and another means to get rid of it. At length he hit upon the antiseptic which was at that time just what he was supplying the profession with to-day, and it was instrumental in helping him get rid of eczema entirely. But Dr. Williams says that the final cure has to be associated with his antiseptic treatment and the treatment of the malady. Dr. Williams says that as near as he can estimate it that osteopathic practitioners have applied his antiseptic in about 7,000 cases. Osteopaths like James P. H. Aeger, J. F. Minear, J. M. Kinsinger, H. H. Richardson, S. E. Hemstreet, etc., have used it in the years since his first publication. Robert H. Williams was born at Cameron, Mo., January 19, 1877. He graduated from the Cameron High School, attended the Missouri State College, and entered the A. S. O. in September, 1897, and graduated January, 1900. He had practiced one term before graduating. He is a Mason and a Mason. He is one of those fellows who can continue to find optimism in life after a lot of things have gone wrong, and many others have made up their minds to give up. He is one of that class of fellows of whom Elbert Hubbard said: "Some people in life, it is said, have a great propensity to give me the man who can do things in spite of hell." I believe that Dr. Williams has a good and useful antiseptic and that he is giving satisfaction to the osteopaths who are using it and to the patients. Dr. Williams says that he has not discouraged. He is one of those not using it now who will use it in the future; and if I did not believe this Dr. Williams would have been this little bit in our pioneer columns. (either the liquid or lotion as the conditions indicate) in combination with osteopathic treatment and the treatment of the malady. He noticed symptoms of the trouble developing on his own body early in 1900, and kept trying constantly by one and another means to get rid of it. Osteopathy in the September Magazines

THE METROPOLITAN MAGAZINE

For September will contain an article on "Osteopathy" by the pen of Dr. Ed­win M. Downing of York, Pa. The article gives a clear presentation of what osteopathy is and recites the history of its development. It contains a portrait of Dr. A. T. Still. This article is worth a wide circulation and we re­commend our friends getting the magazine and reading it. Dr. Downing is always alert to advance the cause of osteopathy and everywhere he can and he is to be congratulated on his suc­cess in thus bringing osteopathy to favorable notice through the wide circulation of this good magazine.

The Cosmetopolitan Magazine

Also is expect­ed to print an article entitled "What Is Oste­opathy" in the September number from the pen of Dr. Belle Case Harrington. The latter article also recites some of the well known historic cases relating to the development of osteopathy, among them the cure of Mrs. Helen DeLeon de lut of South Dakota, who was cured of cancer of the breast.

It is just such articles as these that help to give osteopathy a wide presentation to the public and the profession is to be congratulated upon the appearance of these two excellent articles the same month in magazines of national circulation.

he becomes thoroughly acquainted with its physiological action he is sure to be a warm supporter of the solution. The osteopath meets hosts of catarhal conditions of the most chronic form. The keynote of treatment in this branch of the profession is based on the restoration of normal circulation. The osteopathic effort is to relieve local congestion or pressure on nerve centers which govern the circulation of some distant organ or member of the body. He says, 'Restore normal circulatio,n and you will find that disease nature in her effort to cure.' He does not use medicines and does not want to hear of them. Glyco-Thymoline is the antitoxin for this purpose. He is also interesting because he is told that Glyco-Thymoline besides its antitoxic properties has a powerful influence on the congested membrane. Due to its hygroscopic action, capillary circulation is stimulated and glандular action renovated. All disturbances of inflammation are drawn outwardly from the tissues and eliminated, cell growth is fostered and resolution happens. All of these conditions are corrected and fermentation checked. All its physiological properties are in direct line with nature's process of repair and the doctor's principles of practice.

Osteopathy (? in India)

NOT long ago I entertained in my home a man who has spent the past ten years as a missionary to the Bhil tribes of India, a class of natives living among the hills away from civilization, and absolutely untreated.

During this man's absence from the United States, osteopathy has had its rise. He knew of the term but not of the practice. While in my home he complained of a pleuritic pain, and I told him to remove his coat and vest and be seated on my treatment stool, and I would show him what osteopathy could do for such cases.

During the process of treatment he gave vent to his surprise at both the method and results by saying that this was the plan of treatment in vogue among the Bhil people by their native doctors.

The Osteopathic Indemnity vs. Damage Suits.

I. If in reading a recent number of The Osteopathic Physician, I noticed that Dr. Ralph H. Williams of Rochester, N. Y., asked for your attention and addresses of professional indemnity companies who make a business of insuring physicians and dentists against damage suits for malpractice. I have had some satisfactory results with the medical policy does, gave Dr. Williams as much information as I could, and thinking that you might be interested, I will give you the same.

I have a Physicians' and Surgeons' Liability Policy with the New Amsterdam Casualty Company, whose home office is at 74-76-78 William street, New York City, N. Y.

The Fidelity and Casualty Company of New York have a similar policy. Their agent was the first to approach me upon the subject of liability insurance, so I insured with his company. However, when the policy reached the hands of the company, it was turned down on the ground that I was an osteopath, and not a regular registered physician.

I now wish to express my desire to know in regard to this I will be pleased to tell you if it is in my power to do so.—Fraternally yours,

Boy Killed by a Dose of Antitoxin.

A PHYSICIAN named Geo. O'B. DeBar at Eugene, Ore., on July 19th, gave a boy suffering from asthma, an injection of diphtheritic antitoxin with result that the boy died almost immediately. The coroner's jury returned the following verdict:

That his death was caused by the criminal carelessness of Dr. George O'B. DeBar, said Dr. DeBar, at the time of the giving diphtheric antitoxin, knowing the probable fatal consequences; also, that he further administered this antitoxin without consulting the father of the deceased as to the probable outcome which the hypodermic injection might have with a patient affected with asthma, or without calling any other physician to consultation before administering said antitoxin.

To show how the average M. D. will stand in the eyes of his fellows, in forcing deadly treatments upon an unsuspecting public, a council of fifteen practicing physicians held a meeting in that city July 22d, and passed resolutions endorsing the error and saying it was good treatment and that DeBar deserved no censure for the unfortunate result. They said he used "an authorized remedy," sanctioned by widespread professional experience.

We then held that "authorized remedies" will say an outraged public. The sooner done away with the better.

It is a part of the profession of Oregon will go ahead and give this same foolish antidote to just as many more victims as he may kill, if one of their ranks is indicted for his folly, the whole tribe of allopaths would be most profitable how they dished out to the people.

DOCTOR, you and I have not been as alert as we ought to be regarding this subject; you feel the influence of causing and curing disease. It's a fact, and you will see a great light if you look into this subject deeply. We will reveal the mind in disease, and how important it is for you to get a good knowledge of it. We will serve our patients if you would learn them completely.

Mind-Leaks are as much lesions as a pinch in the sciatic nerve. The mind is just as subject to it as the nervous systems. And either when diseased reacts upon the other. Both need adjustment many times. The patient requires education on this point and this August number of "Osteopathic Health" is the right thing to give it to to

This brochure entitled "The Mind in Osteopathic Therapeutics" is really made up of several short articles and different subjects, while reading well separately they all fit together so as to produce a convincing brochure on the subject of the mind in disease which will give a new and enlarged view of osteopathy to all who read it. Even you who are very active in one of your homes, if you lend the book to them who has become a recruit to osteopathy and well they might. Therefore, we need not blind ourselves to the fact that the M. D.'s influence on the world is exerted in the direction of belittling osteopathy, pooh-poohing its cured cases which drugs could not benefit, and creating the impression in the minds of the average person not better informed, either that it is a very limited practice or that it is only safe to administer osteopathic treatment in the form of massage under the direction of a pill doctor, or some other nonsensical idea as such is commonly prevalent.

The only way in which our practitioners can successfully overcome these erroneous views on the part of the great majority of the people of this land is to keep up their good work of curing patients, who then become living witnesses to their skill and the effectiveness of our science, and also by convincing the people of the importance and necessity of osteopathic education in the schools and colleges where they are getting plenty of fine strawberries.

The starting point of osteopathy is the anatomical obstruction to vital currents. This will include people with old chronic maladies, many of whom did not have leisure or inclination to take treatment in the winter or spring season, others who did not feel able to venture out in inclement weather and also new people who are coming slowly into every community at the summer season.

Training people up to believe in osteopathy is like instilling the truth of the children of any nation. The lesson is taught today that it will be acted upon tomorrow when the occasion demands it. The boys of a nation who are inspired with patriotism today will defend the state tomorrow if need be; those who are educated in June and July as regards the merits of osteopathy may not need treatment, either themselves personally or their friends, for several months, but the good work shall go on at this favorable season, notwithstanding.

We must educate the people as to the simplicity, reasonableness, safety and effectiveness of osteopathic therapeutics—and still we must educate them. We must keep up this campaign of education perpetually from Maine to California and from Halifax to Mexico City, because there are other very active osteopathic agencies at work to create prejudicious views regarding osteopathy, and these agencies do not cease their campaigning for one moment. We are outnumbered from one to a hundred times by the M. D.'s in every State in this Union, and the great majority of the M. D.'s feel that their bread and butter is jeopardized.

To succeed in this work is a help to you if you read it. You will agree, we are sure, that this August issue will be an invaluable piece of campaign literature to give patients and the public generally.

How many of this August issue will you make use of, Doctor? See the table of contents on this page if you didn't read the sample magazine sent you on July 29th. Place your order today. This edition is limited and we predict will soon be exhausted.

The Need of Summer Campaigning

It is just as easy to keep practice booming in the summer as it is to let it go to pieces. While a number of one's regular patients ordinarily go away on vacations, it is not at all impossible—if one will work to achieve such an end—that an entirely new lot of patients will be found in your home.

This will include people with old chronic maladies, many of whom did not have leisure August Issue of "Osteopathic Health" Contains
