

A.T. Still University-School of Osteopathic Medicine in Arizona (ATSU-SOMA) mission

Prepare individuals through high-quality, innovative, learning-centered undergraduate and graduate medical education programs to become compassionate osteopathic physicians and healthcare leaders who serve medically underserved populations with a focus on research and community-oriented primary care.

Clinical requirements for third-year students

-  Core Family Medicine (four weeks) - two blocks
-  Core Internal Medicine (four weeks) - two blocks
-  Core Pediatrics (four weeks) - one block
-  Core OB-GYN (four weeks) - one block
-  Core Psychiatry (four weeks) - one block
-  Core Surgery (four weeks) - one block
- Elective (four weeks) - two blocks - any discipline

One block = four weeks

* May be completed outpatient and inpatient

 Must have inpatient component (surgical procedures and OB deliveries)

Clinical requirements for fourth-year students

- EM Clinical Requirement (four weeks) - one block
- Clinical Requirement (four weeks) - one block
- Selective I & II (four weeks) - two blocks - academic study and adult/pediatrics subspecialty
- Electives (four weeks) - six blocks - any discipline

Other requirements for clinical rotations

The preceptor of record supervising the student must be a physician.

Benefits of being an ATSU-SOMA community partner site

- Hometown Scholar program endorsement: atsu.edu/hometown-scholars
- Preceptors: adjunct clinical faculty appointment, continuing medical education, A.T. Still Memorial Library access, participation in scholarly activity, and professional development resources

For more information, please contact

Kris Brunia

Executive Assistant, University Partnerships 5850 E.

Still Circle | Mesa, AZ 85206 480.219.6016 |

krisbrunia@atsu.edu

ATSU-SOMA:
atsu.edu/soma