THE CENTER

Located in the state-of-the-art Center for Advanced Oral Health on ATSU's campus in Mesa, Arizona.

ORTHODONTICS

First and only orthodontic residency program in Arizona. This program has a rich, clinically focused education where students are exposed to the most current techniques and practices in the field.

UNDERSERVED

Students provide service to the underserved through clinical rotations at St. Vincent de Paul of Arizona and Barrow Neurological Institute Cleft and Craniofacial Center in Phoenix.

60%

Approximately 60 percent of residents' time is devoted to clinical training, 20 percent to seminars and small-group classes, and the remainder to independent research and teaching.

CURRICULUM

This 30-month residential orthodontics program is based in Mesa, Arizona. Courses commence the first Monday following 4th of July week, and graduation is held on the second Thursday in December following the second year of courses.

YEAR ONE

New residents have three weeks of orientation including basic classes like wire bending, bonding basic techniques, clinical photography, and other pre-clinical preparatory classes. By the third week, residents start their didactic coursework and bonding their first group of assigned patients. Starting in the third month, residents begin rotations at the St. Vincent de Paul Dental Clinic.

YEAR TWO

The residents continue their didactic courses, begin their craniofacial and temporomandibular disorder rotations, and start their research projects. During the fall semester, all second-year residents attend the Charles H. Tweed International Foundation for Orthodontic Research & Education's Tweed Study Course in Tucson, Arizona. Second-year residents take the American Board of Orthodontics (ABO) Written Examination during their spring semester.

YEAR THREE

Residents finish preparing their ABO cases, complete their research projects, and are encouraged to finish 80 percent of the clinical cases they started. Residents have time to visit orthodontic offices, observe orthognathic surgery cases, and attend job interviews.
