Summer 2009 Quartile

Image (Streptococcus pyogenes) courtesy of Dr. Neal Chamberlain

I have had my results for a long time:
But I do not yet know how I am to arrive at them.
~Karl Friedrich Gauss

Publications

According to Kenneth Kiple, a contributor to The Cambridge Illustrated History of Medicine, “by inventing agriculture, humans also cultivated disease….humans share some 65 diseases with dogs, 50 with cattle, 56 with sheep and goats, 42 with pigs, 35 with horses, and 26 with poultry.”

Presentations

* indicates presenter

Published Abstracts

Kuehl MD [alumnus], Freeman WK, Erickson SE, Snyder AR, Valovich McLeod TC. Increased frequency of prior concussions is associated with greater impact of headache and lower health-related quality of life in collegiate athletes. J Athl Train. 2009;44(suppl 3):S44.

“Osteopathy is a science. Its use is in the healing of the afflicted.”
A.T. Still, M.D., D.O.
Congratulations to the Winners of the 2008 Clint Thompson Award for Clinical Advancement

The Clint Thompson Award for Clinical Advancement is awarded annually by the editorial board and section editors of the Journal of Athletic Training, a publication of the National Athletic Trainers’ Association. Clint Thompson was active in various editorial roles for the Journal for more than 30 years, and it is for that dedication and service that this award was created. As an interesting aside, he became the head athletic trainer at Northeast Missouri State University, now Truman State University, in Kirksville in 1985 and was once an adjunct clinical professor at A.T. Still University’s Kirksville College of Osteopathic Medicine.

Dr. Alison Snyder was the first author for the winning article of the 2008 Clint Thompson Award for Clinical Advancement for the following article:

Snyder AR, Parsons JT, Valovich McLeod TC, Bay RC, Michener LA, Sauers EL.

Dr. Snyder received her award at the National Athletic Trainers’ Association 2009 Annual Meeting and Clinical Symposium in San Antonio, Texas, in June.

Dr. Tamara Valovich McLeod was the first author for the article named as the second runner-up for the 2008 Clint Thompson Award for Clinical Advancement for the following article:

Valovich McLeod TC, Snyder AR, Parsons JT, Bay RC, Michener LA, Sauers EL.